International Day, 2011

I attended International Day. This was the second time I was there. At the first one I didn't speak any English. I didn't understand anything that was said in the introduction.

At the second it was different. I was very excited to be at International Day. It was my opportunity to see all the performances from many countries. I saw dancing and singing. Many countries participated in that great event.

After the show was done I went out to see the tables where there was food which was made by people who come from different countries. I enjoyed seeing that, especially because the food was made by expert hands. I participated by bringing a sweet dessert my wife had made. I tried most of the food and spoke to the people who had made that food, and they explained how they made it. After that I took some pictures with many people who were either friends or teachers.

I was very lucky to be at International Day.
